New London Engineering is a manufacturer of a complete line of industrial and processing conveyors and conveyor systems (light to heavy duty, standard and O.E.M. specified units). Markets are national and international. Products are sold using their own and their sister company's network of distribution.

New London Pallet Mfg. Inc. produces pallets, dividers and related lumber products. In 1992 business was purchased by Andy McFaul and moved to its new location on North Shawano Street.

Edward J. Ort Lumber buys timber to trim and saw into lumber. They moved to this modern sawmill in the spring of 1977. They have rebuilt their mill since a fire in 1987.

Ort Lumber Inc. buys standing timber and cut logs which are then cut into lumber. They truck lumber throughout the state.

Ort Trucking Inc. hauls to 48 states. They do inter-state hauling and leasing. They haul just about anything. Presently they have 170 trucks and 250 trailers.

R E & D Inc. is a division of Curwood Company. They manufacture custom machine parts.

called "Three Pines School." The church was moved to New London and was completely rebuilt and it is now located in Memorial Park.

HUCKLEBERRY ACRES CAMPGROUNDS Situated in a natural woodland with a creek and two well-fed lakes for fishing or swimming. It is open year-round, and has 200 campsites, miniature golf, video games building, general store, playground, etc. Its location is 3-1/2 miles south of New London on County Trunk W.

LITTLE WOLF RIVER Famous for its fast, clean running waters, the Little Wolf was the site of numerous lumber mills in the pioneering days of the 1850's. Dams were constructed to control the water level which aided in sending logs downstream during the spring season. Ruins of the dams are evident today, although the lumber mill has vanished. Pine was the principal tree harvested. Many of these logs were sent down-stream 50 miles to the mills in Oshkosh. Tourist enjoy going to Wolf River Trips and Campground where they rent canoes and innertubes, and spend leisurely time on the river.

MOSQUITO HILL NATURE CENTER Shaped by erosion and scoured by glaciers, Mosquito Hill remains the highest point in the New London area. A 400-acre area located 2 miles east of New London off County Trunk S, at the end of Roger's Road. Visitors can find ample parking adjacent to the Interpretative Building. The Nature Center and hiking trails are open year round. Visitors can observe seasonal displays. (414)779-8433

MUKWA WILDLIFE AREA 1,500 acre marshland area located just West of New London and is owned by the Department of Natural Resources.

NEW LONDON MUSEUM This museum contains many Indian and African artifacts, mounted birds, collection of bird skins and historical items of the area. In 1986 this building was remodeled and now the library and museum adjoin each other. The museum's location is 406 South Pearl Street. It is open to the public with no admission fee.

RAWHIDE BOY'S RANCH This 700 acre ranch located on the Wolf River provides an unusual creative leadership and vocational training program for young teenage men referred by the juvenile courts. This non-profit program has an impressive success rate since it opened in 1965. A large portion of its income to operate comes from sales of 2,500 used cars, boats and campers donated each year. The young men work on these donated items by restoring and fixing them so they may be sold at an auction they have once a year. Visitors are welcome. Call 1-800-RAWHIDE.

RIVERSIDE PARK This new paved park has three launching sites and ample parking for the fishermen and water enthusiast to use. Adjacent to Riverside Park, is a sledding hill. It is lighted in the winter for the public to use.

WOLF RIVER Largest river in Waupaca County, flowing in a northerly direction through east New London. The river is one of the few remaining "wild" rivers in America. It is famous for the annual migration of the walleye and white bass, catfish and spawning sturgeon. The walleye run usually begins the later part of March and continues into mid-April. The white bass run follows, starting around mid-April and lasts until about mid-May.

WOLF RIVER TRIPS CAMPGROUND This is a recreational area and campground where you can rent canoes and innertubes to float down the Wolf River. Other recreation provided is swimming, tennis, hiking and volleyball. The campsites are located along the Little Wolf River. Campers come from all over to stay and enjoy their ever popular tubing. Fun for all ages.
